CEDIFOP (Centro di Formazione e Specializzazione Subacquea) is a professional diving training center located in Palermo, Italy. Specializing in various diving qualifications, it offers comprehensive courses in underwater technical operations, including courses for commercial divers, offshore divers, and welding divers. CEDIFOP's programs are designed to meet international standards, including IMCA and IDSA criteria, and provide certifications recognized for work in Europe and other international locations.

The center offers a range of specialized courses, such as the "Operatore Tecnico Subacqueo" (OTS) for diving technicians, with both basic and advanced levels available. It provides training for both inshore and offshore diving operations, including welding certifications. CEDIFOP is dedicated to practical, hands-on training, equipping students with the necessary skills to work in various commercial and industrial diving environments. The center also offers courses for first aid and medical assistance in underwater settings.

Additionally, CEDIFOP helps students gain necessary certifications from Italian and international maritime authorities, ensuring they are qualified for professional diving jobs in commercial industries.
